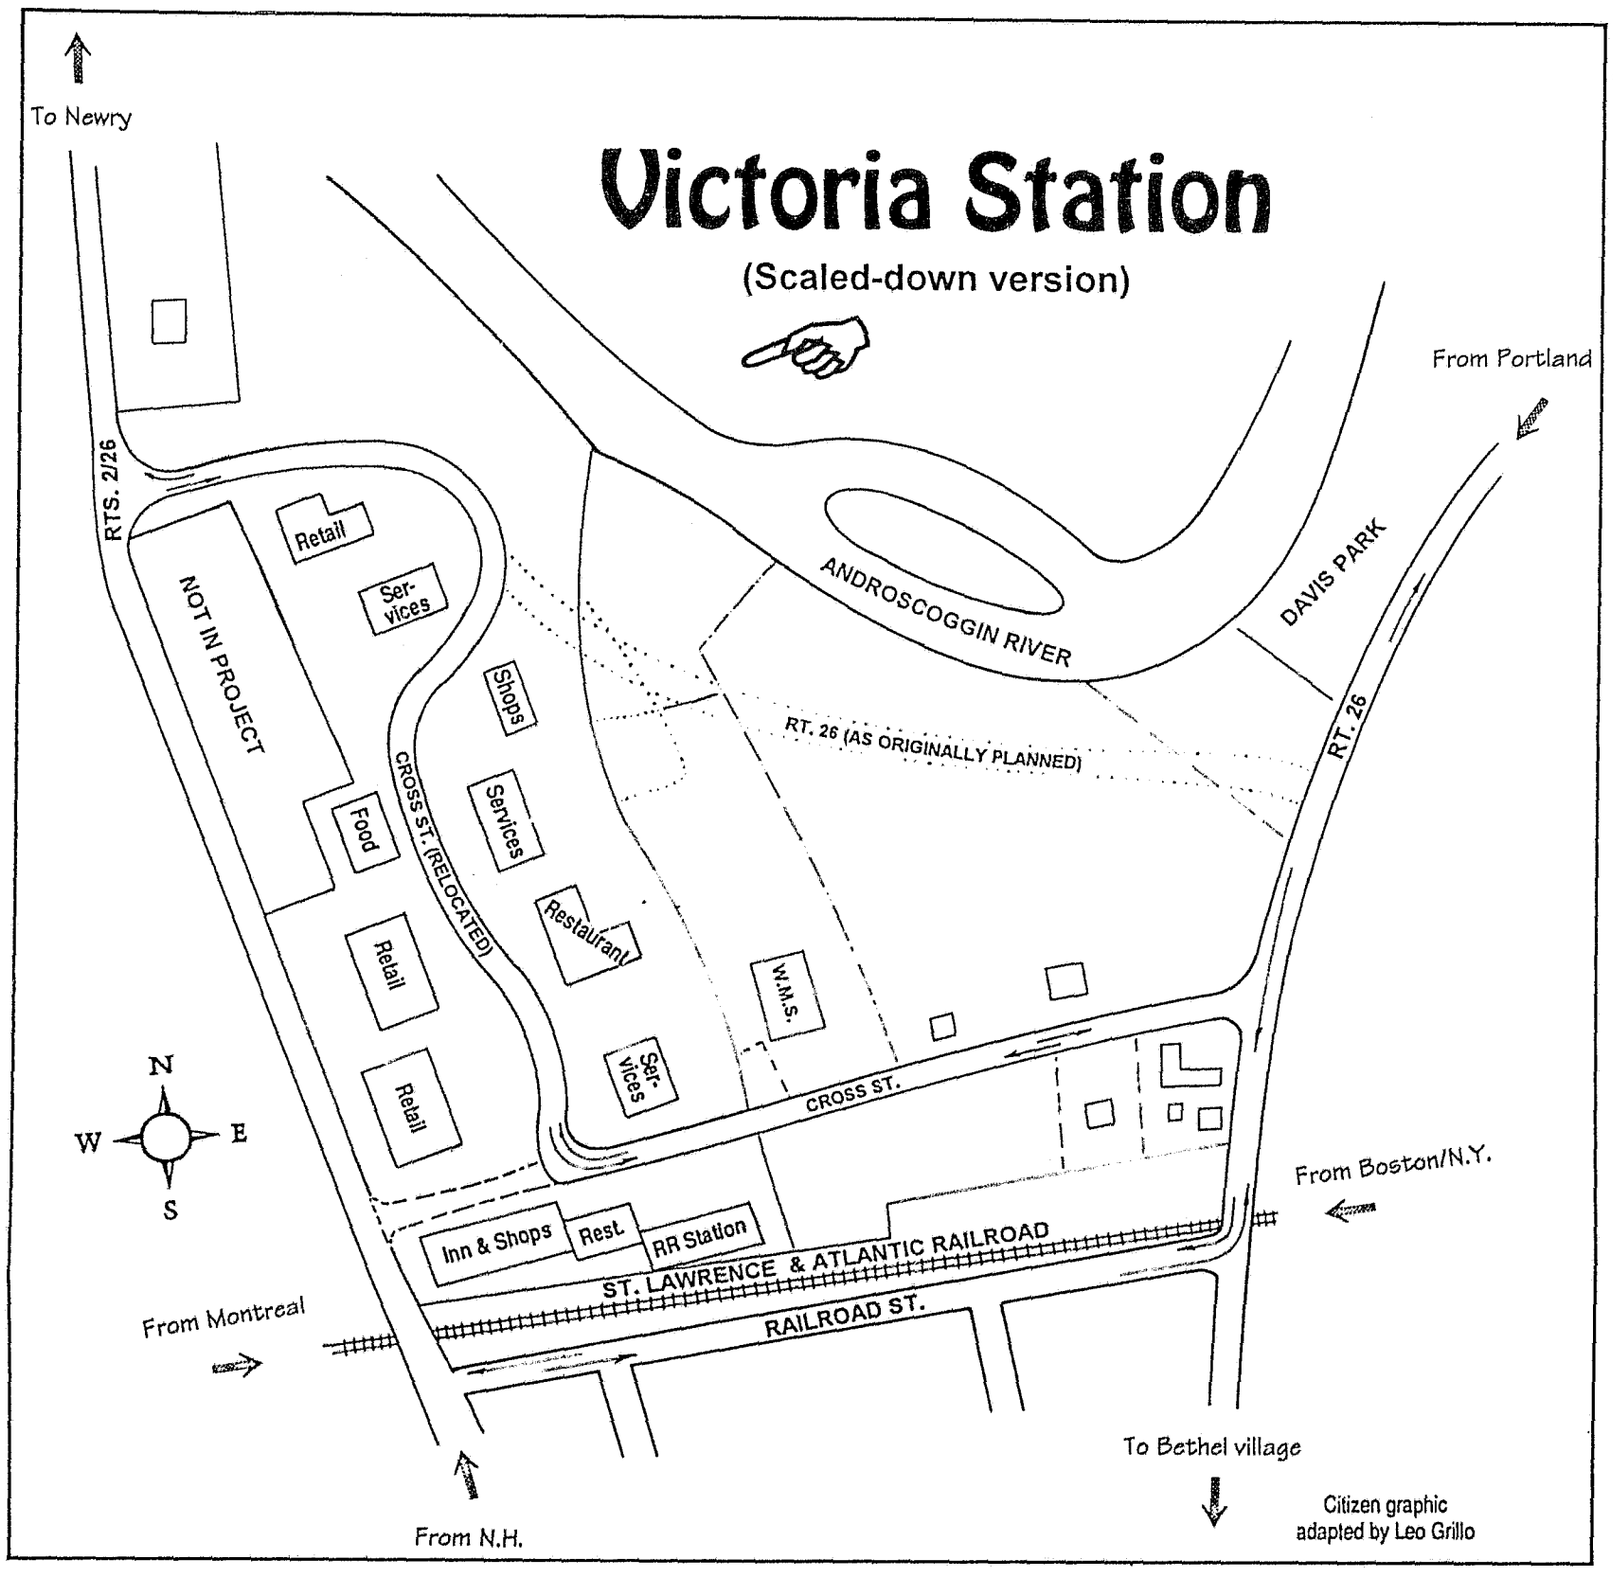
Major development proposed for Cross St.



THE CURRENT PLAN FOR VICTORIA STATION calls for a 36-acre (shaded area), $25 million commercial development located between the western end of Cross Street and the Androscoggin River. An original, larger plan would have included an additional 16 acres of land to the east, but developers have been unable to reach agreement with Danny Davis, who owns the adjoining property. For the current plan to be feasible, developers must convince the Town of Bethel to sell the 6.2 acre parcel that is the site of the town's Public Works and ambulance garage. The developers' original plan called for the relocation of Cross Street and Route 26 to the route indicated by the dotted lines (upper right) and for a riverside park to be located between the road and the river.

- Backers betting on growth of Sunday River, arrival of regular passenger rail service
- But first--Bethel must be convinced to sell 6.2 acre site of town garages

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Plans were formally revealed Monday evening for a $25 million commercial development at the northern end of the Bethel village.

If carried to completion, the project will be the largest such development in the history of the town.

Preliminary plans for the development call for construction of a train station, restaurants, retail and service space (see map), to be located on 36 acres between the western end of Cross Street and the Androscoggin River.

The proposal still has a number of hurdles to clear--in addition to dealing with the usual regulatory requirements, the developers must also convince the town to sell a 6.2 acre parcel of land that is the current site of the ambulance barn and Highway Department garage.

But the developers say if all goes well construction on the project, known as "Victoria Station," could begin by the spring of 1995.

The project is being developed by Heinie Merrill and Grant Wilson, partners in the development of the Sunday River Brewery, and Les Otten, owner of Sunday River Ski Resort.

Merrill presented the plan at Monday evening's selectmen's meeting, then met with the selectmen in executive session for more than an hour to discuss the possible purchase of the town property.

Merrill termed the acquisition of the town property "absolutely essential to the success of the project."

He declined to reveal publicly what financial figures, if any, had been discussed in executive session, but he said Tuesday that he "came away encouraged" from his meeting with the selectmen.

Skiers and trains

The project is being driven primarily by two factors, Merrill told The Citizen: further expansion of Sunday River Ski Resort and the expectation that passenger rail service to Bethel will be a reality, perhaps as soon as 1996.

Merrill said much of the space in the project is expected to be rented to the types of ancillary businesses that would follow the growth of a major ski resort

"And having Les on board will enable us to coordinate with Sunday River's expansion program," he said

A central element in the project (and its organizing theme, according to Merrill) would be a new train station. He said the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad has been "open and eager" in preliminary discussions regarding improved passenger facilities in Bethel.

Merrill said regularly scheduled passenger rail service between Montreal and Boston (and beyond, once North and South stations are linked) would be a reality within a few years. But even before that, he predicted, Amtrak would be interested in running special excursion trains for skiers, leaf peepers or summer visitors.

Three-season use "is an essential part of the plan,' he said.

Benefits to Bethel

In outlining the project for the selectmen Monday, Merrill claimed it would bring a number of benefits to the town. The projected benefits included money (from the sale of the town land) to begin the relocation of the Public Works facilities, increased property taxes, new jobs, beautification of "the deteriorated

Rockhounds hit purple paydirt

More than a ton of amethyst

By WENDY HANSCOM

It's a prospector's dream.

Three rockhounds formed a partnership and went prospecting in Stowe on land adjacent to the White Mountain National Forest, near the Deer Hill mine.

And over the July Fourth weekend, the trio hit paydirt--a 12-foot-long, four-foot-wide, up-to-seven-foot-deep pocket of the royal purple gemstone amethyst.

Exploration of the dry pocket began with the removal of a few small chunks of amethyst and ended up with a cavity which can accommodate four people.

Dennis Creaser of South Paris, Gary Howard of Bath and Jay Windover of Dixfield discovered the pocket. They are partners in the firm, Intergalactic Mining.

The partners held a press conference Friday at Perham's of West Parks to reveal the details of the find--which includes more than 2,500 pounds of amethyst. Television crews and journalists from as far away as Boston turned out.

Creaser said the group has been digging in the area since last spring and had found some small pockets of smoky quartz.

"All the signs were there," Creaser said, "but it's always luck to find a pocket."

When the amethyst pocket was first discovered, the group was sure it was just another smoky quartz pocket.

"We had no clue how big it was until we got five people in it,"

Opinions

All aboard?

Passenger rail service (including a new train station), a much enlarged riverside park, reconstruction and relocation of the overstressed and dangerous Cross Street, the possibility (or specter) of a Bethel municipal building, a major financial commitment in the town by businessmen with a history of pulling off big projects--the Victoria Station proposal should make for some very interesting discussions in the coming weeks.

At first glance it seems an idea whose time has come. If increased commercial development is to come to Bethel, and come it will, then the Cross Street area is the ideal place. It is close to the village--not so close that through its traffic would clog Main Street, but close enough that the village should still remain a viable location for businesses that don't depend on high traffic volume. It is also on the main skier artery and unlike the rest of the village has no lack of parking space.

Further, to the extent that the project would tend to focus commercial development there (and to keep that development architecturally compatible with the rest of the village), then Victoria Station would help to at least forestall perhaps the single greatest aesthetic threat facing Bethel: franchise sprawl blighting the still green approaches to town along Route 26.

On the face of it, the Victoria Station proposal many very well be, as the developers claim, "a win-win" situation, but much will depend on the details, beginning with what the town will be offered for its property there. We trust the selectmen and (if it goes that far) town voters will approach the proposal with an open mind, and with a keen eye for the community's long-term best interest.

But we are not enthused

... by the name. "Victoria Station"? Come on, guys--this is America. Our founding fathers fought a revolution so that we didn't have to name our civic monuments after dead hereditary monarchs.

The developers of the Cross Street project say they intend to design a complex that is in harmony with the character and traditional appearance of the rest of the village. That's a fine idea (though we've never heard a developer say otherwise), but let's start at the top--with the name.

The Bethel area has its own rich history and tradition. And no shortage of fine words to use as names. Certainly we don't need to pull out of the dustbin of history some worn-out Masterpiece-Theater pseudo-culcha relic, a name with no organic connection whatsoever to the region it will come to represent.

We're very optimistic about the passenger railroad aspect of the project, and that's part of the reason we're so concerned with the name. Ten years down the line, do we really want the railroad station announcers in New York, Boston and Montreal intoning: "Last call for the 8:15 ski special, departing track five for ... Victoria Station."? It sounds like the passengers are setting out for a meal at their local Victoria Station (the restaurant chain), or perhaps for a shopping spree at a discount outlet for Victoria's Secret (the mail-order purveyor of ladies' lacey, peek-a-boo unmentionables).

Being personally of Hibernian heritage, we admit to carrying a big chip of peat on our shoulder regarding the cultural imperialism of Perfidious Albion, but we think even closet Royalists would admit that this particular bit of Victoriana is shopworn merchandise. It's stale, it's fake, and it's all wrong for these Yankee hills.

The name might make some sense if it were merely an excuse for inviting Lady Di to pop a bottle at the grand opening (the lady clearly loves a good party). But if not, then let's stick with promoting the local product: let's have those big city announcers bellowing out "Bethel Station," or "Mahoosuc Station," or even "GottaSki Station".

Hold a name-the-station contest. Award a season pass or a weekend in Montreal for the best suggestion. But one way or another let's find a real name, not this phony bit of trivializing marketing fluff.

People travel light these days. So let's not start our own trip into the brave new world of railroading burdened with the musty Old World baggage of the rapidly self-destructing Windsor (nee Saxe-Coburg-Gotha) dynasty.

GET OUT OF THE WAY, G.O.P.

To the Editor:

I just finished reading an article in the Lewiston Sun with a quote by Bob Dole in which he threatened to "turn the lights out on the Democrats" by making Bill Clinton fail.

I have to say it causes a sinking feeling in my chest.

I can hardly believe that the party I used to vote for, campaigned for, fought for for so long has sunk to this. That they have become a part of obstructionism so pointed they have completely lost sight of the people they represent. People who are doing their damndest to make ends meet.

They lost the election because enough people became convinced that they had lost vision.

Now they are proving it.

They have no answers. Only roadblocks.

It amounts to a sour grapes attack on the party in power. An attack that does nothing to help the people they represent. The American people are smarter than that. They are ready for changes. The Republicans are the party of the past. The status quo.

The status quo is killing us.

Bill Clinton did more for the economy in three hours, meeting with Helmut Kohl and Mitterand and the other members of the G-7 than Bob Dole has managed to do in the last ten years, riding on Ronald Reagan's coattails. If we allow him, and with him the rest of the Republican senators, to stand in the way of growth programs in the name of party politics, it is the American in the street who will suffer. We will have given them Carte Blanche to filibuster this administration to death.

Americans voted for a change.

Write your congressman and senator.

Tell them to get off their tails and get legislation moving.

We didn't vote them in there to stall reform but to promote it.

If they don't hear from you, they assume there really is a Great Silent Majority. And it's only natural for them to believe that it sides with them.

CONNECT SEEKS FUNDS

To the Editor:

In June of 1990 Community Concepts, Inc. began an innovative substance abuse prevention program for teens and their families known as CONNECT. CONNECT consists of a 20-week peer group, a seven-day wilderness experience with Hurricane Island Outward Bound School, substance abuse prevention education, and community service. Families are involved with the program through final day activities at Outward Bound, and parents are encouraged to meet with community volunteers called Natural Helpers, who offer support and a listening ear.

CONNECT is dedicated to providing teens with the resources and skills to make wise choices in their lives. We have been able to provide support and education to both teens and parents. By providing experiences that can help build self-esteem, we are able to let teens know that they make a difference and that they are leaders. CONNECT is designed to challenge teens and families to grow in positive ways.

Community Concepts, Inc. received original funding for CONNECT through Medical Care Development, Inc. of Augusta. MCD Inc., a non-profit organization that provides national and international health education services, wrote and was awarded a four-year federal Center for Substance Abuse Prevention grant. This federal funding to provide direct service to teens and their families ends this July 30. We are currently in the process of seeking additional funds to keep CONNECT going. For anyone interested in becoming involved with our funding efforts, feel free to contact CONNECT staff for ways you can become involved. Our number is 743-7716.

As the staff of MCD and CCI continue searching for funds to continue CONNECT in the Bethel area, it is with great appreciation that we acknowledge some very special people for their efforts in making CONNECT a success so far. Special thanks to the staff of Telstar Middle/High School, especially Rodney Abbott and Sally Hannon for helping teens become part of CONNECT. Thank you to the Bethel Alliance Church for weekly meeting space for the teens. Thanks also to the staff of Hurricane Island Outward Bound School Newry base who provided memorable experiences to CONNECT teens and families. Deepest appreciation goes to Diana Gallant and Kathy Buyze for their work with CONNECT parents.

Thanks to the community volunteers who have served as Natural Helpers, providing support and listening ears. CONNECT is grateful for your dedication. You are making the community a better place for teens and families through your efforts.

And last of all, to all the Telstar teens and their families ever involved in CONNECT, a special thank you from the CONNECT staff for being part of our lives and for allowing us to be part of yours. You have touched our lives and we are richer because of it.

The first session of Maine's 116th Legislature sputtered to a humid close last week. But not before legislators got in some floor speech licks for their 1994 political campaigns.

Pundits now claim that with the Legislature gaveled sine die--'til we meet again--that our wives, children and even dogs are once again safe on the byways of Maine. Maybe.

The final act of the Legislature was to return and attempt once again to overturn vetoes of Gov. John R. McKernan Jr. The Democrats are batting zip over six years. And once again they fanned failing to compile a two-third's vote count against McKernan. This veto impotence really sticks in the craw of Democrats.

But it didn't stop some House D's from inflating around their desk microphones to lay some groundwork for reelection.

Creating the most oratory was the bill to increase the "circuit breaker" program whereby citizens receive property tax breaks if taxes exceed income by a formula. Presently that spread is 7 percent with a maximum payment of $500. A heavily D-sponsored bill would lessen the spread to 4.5 percent with a maximum payment of $750.

The bill also involved reimbursement to local governments whose residents and/or businesses own property in the tree growth program. Tree growth land is taxed at approximately one-third of what other land is taxed. Presently, the state reimburses communities at 64 percent of that loss. The bill would increase that to 90 percent.

Governor McKernan vetoed the bill saying it "increases taxes ... and violates the compromise state budget passed by Legislature in June."

Proponents of the bill and for veto override said it would create funds of $18.5 million by adding 25 revenue agents to the state Bureau of Taxation, raises the cigarette tax by two cents and increases the sales tax of short-term auto rentals.

Rep. Clyde Hichborn, D-Howland, spoke for the override and for an increase in tree growth reimbursements. Hichborn, a retired school administrator, said he spoke for the "little people."

Hichborn switched his party affiliation from Republican to Democrat on the floor of the House in the 114th amidst a standing ovation from Democrats. Some say that unique switcheroo rewarded Hichborn a seat on the prestigious appropriations committee. Speaker Martin makes all House committee appointments.

The same Republicans say that Hichborn as an appropriation member "wasn't speaking for the little people" when he voted to continue and make permanent the "temporary" $165 million sales tax and two-cent gas tax in the new state biennial budget.

Leading the veto sustaining arguments regarding the hiring of 25 new tax revenue agents in the bill was Republican freshman legislator Richard Simoneau of Thomaston. He is a certified public accountant and former IRS revenue agent.

Simoneau said that it was preposterous that new agents would find $18 million in unpaid sales and use taxes where the state tax assessor said there was about 90 percent compliance. "So where is the $300 million in unreported income a year?" asked Simoneau.

Democrat House Floor Leader Dan Gwadowsky attempted to rebut Simoneau with perhaps the greatest hypocrisy line of the day. He said it was "a devastating retreat of promises made to working families (not to increase circuit breaker benefits)." Gwadowsky had voted just two weeks before to "retreat on promises" ending some $200 million in "temporary" sales and gas taxes.

And so boys and girls that ends another legislative chapter of "Dick and Jane's Tax Travels in Dirigo Land." Say your prayers and sleep tight.

Bakery relocation OK'd

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Bethel Planning Board last week approved a plan to relocate the Hometown Bakery. The board also determined that two other projects in town did not need to go through the site plan review process.

Stacie Benjamin of Greenwood presented Lois Kilroy's and Nancy Morris' plan to relocate the Hometown Bakery to the Dennison property on Vernon Street.

The bakery was destroyed in December when two Main Street buildings burned. The buildings belonged to Ed and Mary Jo Kennett, and Yvonne Bastionelli. The Bastionelli building housed the bakery and Sue Farrar's dance studio.

Kilroy and Morris plan to open the bake shop in a barn on the Vernon Street property. The sale is not final yet, Benjamin said, but Kilroy and Morris do have a purchase agreement.

The board ruled the six parking spaces planned were adequate for the business. The house on the property will remain residential, Kilroy said.

Hansen, bank plans get no review

The board also decided that developer Carl Hanson's proposal to rent office and retail space at the former Bethel Depot building on lower Main Street did not constitute a change of use for the building, and did not come under the site plan review ordinance.

Hanson purchased the building from Joe Gaidis of Bryant Pond at a June 17 public auction. He said the sale won't be final until Aug. 17.

Hanson said the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce has expressed interest in relocating its office to the building, which formerly housed Martha's Restaurant, later a auction house.

Hanson said the building needs to be spruced up inside and out before any business can move in.

Hanson told the board he would like to eventually purchase additional land out back of the building, build a new office building and tear down the old building.

Planning Board member Stan Howe said he would welcome any improvement at the site.

"I think it would be wonderful to clean that building up and put it to good use," Howe said. "It's an eyesore now."

The board also agreed with Planning Board assistant Nancy Schlieper's recommendation that plans to move the automatic teller machine at the Key Bank on Main Street did not need to go through the site plan review process.

Schlieper said bank officials plan to move the machine inside the building and put a drive-through teller window in its place.

land area between the Androscoggin River and Railroad Street," increased passive recreation opportunities along the Androscoggin River, a wider range of shopping choices in Bethel, and the opportunity to locate in Bethel (rather than Newry) those ancillary businesses needed to service Sunday River.

"It would create an in-town commercial section that would hopefully be an extension of the village," he told the selectmen. All construction in the project would adhere to architectural guidelines and would be consistent with the character of the present village.

In a separate interview with The Citizen, Merrill acknowledged that the project would probably have "a short-term negative impact" on Main Street businesses, but in the long term he claimed, the village would benefit from being able to maintain its architectural integrity and not being forced to disrupt the present housing stock in order to accommodate retail development.

And, he contended: "Retail (on Main Street) is really not very successful now."

No franchise restaurants or retail operations are currently lined up for the project, he said, but the developers "will be open to the opportunity provided it can be consistent with the architecturally integrity of the overall project."

The car count in the area (based on five-year-old state data) is not yet high enough to attract franchise operations, he told the selectmen, but that would change as more businesses become concentrated in the area and as Sunday River's growth continues.

Scaled-back plan

The plan presented Monday night does not represent the developers' first choice for the overall outline of the project.

An earlier version would have extended the project along the full length of Cross Street, and up Route 26 as far as Davis Park.

The larger plan "wouldn't include many more revenue producing properties," Merrill said, "but it would allow for (more extensive) relocation of the road and an improved entrance to Bethel."

The larger plan would also allow for the development of a much larger riverside park, which would run the full length of the 300- to 500-foot-wide corridor between the relocated road and the river.

The scaled back plan "leaves unimproved the visually lousy approach to Bethel--that has always bothered me," Merrill said.

But to put together the larger package, the Victoria Station developers needed to acquire two parcels (totalling approximately 16 acres) belonging to Danny Davis.

As of Monday they had not been able to come reach agreement with Davis and negotiations appeared stalled.

"I'm not opposed to selling to Heinie," Davis told The Citizen, "but we weren't able to come to terms.

"There's still some activity here," Davis said, "but I wouldn't want to say who or what until I'm sure of what's going to happen."

Merrill told the selectmen Monday that the developer had tied up the other parcels of land required for the project (with the exception of the town's parcel) with 18-month options.

In a release distributed prior to his presentation Monday, Merrill tied the project to past Bethel economic successes: "(Victoria Station) is a reconstruction of Bethel's development program of the 1850s. The town then responded to the demands of tourists brought by train following the construction of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad in 1851. The building that took place provided commercial prosperity in Bethel. Bethel's location on the Grand Trunk line at the junction of roads running in four directions made it a significant way-station for the growing Rangeley Lakes Region and their tourism trade to the north. The opportunity to revisit the idea with the Sunday River Resort is only to borrow from the successful results of the past."

NEXT WEEK: Reaction to the Victoria Station proposal. Please feel free to call or write The Citizen with your comments.

LOOK MA, TWO HANDS--Emmett Donovan of Bethel practices a double-dribble drill at last week's three-day basketball camp sponsored by the Telstar High School basketball program. Varsity basketball coach Mark Thurlow said 32 first- through twelfth-graders attended the clinics put on by Westbrook College basketball coaches and players. "The kids have just raved about it," Thurlow said. "They've had a ball." (Photo by Wendy Hanscom)

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Lawrence and friends camped out and had cookouts at Red Rock Basin last weekend. Debbie Jones and Kathy Adams are enjoying two weeks' vacation from their work in Fryeburg.

Marcell Longpre has been doing some work for Albert Nelson at Dr. Prien's camp at No. Lovell. Albert Nelson Jr. now has a backhoe to help him on his cemetery work. This will be a help on his back when doing his graves work.

Bob Millett and Arthur Farrer are doing some work at Rogers' camp at Lovell for Dale Nelson. Paul Barnard has been doing more clearing of trees on his land up on Butters Hill for his house lot, where he hopes to build some day. He finds it is quite different from piloting airplanes. Troy Nelson has been helping him.

Frances and Bob Grant have been getting hay from Bethel the last few days. A new foundation is being put in at the old Everett McAllister place in No. Lovell. Arthur Adams has been doing some repair work on his roof this week. Laurence and Mildred Dadmun were at their place here over the past weekend. They have a home in Damariscotta.

Dr. and Mrs. Abdul Traish and family have been at their camp at Lake Keewaydin the past weekend and entertained his brother and wife and little boy from Wisconsin.

Albert and Eleanor Nelson had their annual lobster and clams feed and more at the Kezar Lake Grange Hall in No. Lovell. There were 29 family members and a few friends who attended. The children and grown-ups had fun afterwards playing volleyball, etc. It was a good time for all to get together.

Troy Nelson and Everett Morrison attended the Boy Scout Camp at Raymond last week, and this week Joshua Barnard and Matthew Nelson are attending the same camp. They are having a real good time, and there is a family picnic and program and a sleep-over for the fathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Read Grover were at camp at Aziscohos Lake the past weekend.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Betty Stearns who passed away on Tuesday. Betty taught school here in Stoneham many years and was a good friend and neighbor.

Sympathy is also extended to the family of Leah Millett who passed away on Tuesday in Lewiston. Leah was born in E. Stoneham and was the daughter of Ernest and Bertha A. Levitt McAllister.

Songo Pond

By ALICE KIMBALL

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poisson of Titusville, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poisson Jr. of Nashua, N.H., are spending this week at their cottage here. Several relatives and friends from Berlin, N.H., have visited them.

Robert Anderson, who spent the winter months in Florida, is spending some time with his daughter and family, the Albert Whites.

Mrs. Dottie Adams of Hanover came up last Friday and drove me to Portland for a medical check-up. We went home by way of Auburn and Turner, and I spent several days over the weekend with them at their camp on Howard Pond.

Mrs. Betty Larson and mother, Mrs. Eleanor Frechette of South Paris were visitors here Wednesday.

Norma and David Salway enjoyed a Casco Bay cruise to the islands in the bay on Wednesday. Another day they were in No. Conway and enjoyed a train ride.

Maybe your back feels stiff as a board because it is your lumbar region.

Elderwood Manor

By FLORENCE HALL

Julie and Norman White went with Freeman and Norma Farrington to visit Elizabeth Sennett in Waldoboro on Sunday.

Nancy Fox, Bethel visited Anne Fox on Sunday.

Gertrude Hutchins went on the bus to Rumford on Wednesday.

Louise Powell, Hale and Bernice Wing, Dixfield visited Alma Hewey.

Callers at Florence Hall's on Sunday were Joy Hall, Ashburnham, Mass., and daughter Wendy Hennemann, Columbus, Md.

Nephew Stephen Hall, Conyers, Ga., spent the day with Aunt Florence on Monday. They visited Arvilla Feener.

Thought of the day: A first-grader was talking about the recent fire at his school. "I knew it was going to happen," he said, "because we had been practicing for it all year."

Locke Mills

By CRYSTAL LAKE

On Saturday, July 10, the Locke Mills Union Church had their Strawberry Festival. It was a success again, and many thanks to all who took part in it.

Rowena Dunham, Dolly Olson, Crystal Lake, Jeannine Wing and Marilyn Howe went to East Templeton, Mass. on July 10 to be at the Cummings reunion on Sunday, July 11. This year was the 25th year. The reunion was at Winona Tibbetts' place in East Templeton. We spent the night with Winona and had a very pleasant time. On our way home we met two of Rowena's sisters, Amy Rugg of Oxford, Lillian Sowersly of Bethel and Amy Rugg's daughter Roberta and husband Jeff Andrews from No. Norway at the Dunston's School House Restaurant in Scarboro. They also were at the Cummings reunion.

Jeff Howe of Oxford spent the week with Herb and Rowena Dunham. He is Rowena's grandson. He helped Herb hay and do other chores.

Al and Brent Lake returned home on Wednesday, July 14, after being on a 50-mile canoe trip with the Boy Scout Troop 565. They started their trip on Saturday, July 10.

Larry and Pamela Poland are proud parents of twin boys, Derrick Joseph, 5 lbs, 4 ozs. and Dylan Jacob, 5 lbs, 2 ozs. They were born July 9. Shirley and Bob Buker are the proud grandparents, along with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Poland of West Paris. Pamela is the daughter of the late Herschel Cole of Greenwood.

West Paris

By MIRIAM INMAN

There will be a Forward Fellowship meeting on July 26 at 6:30 p.m. at Beryl Bonney's camp on Round Pond for a "bag supper." They will have a silent auction following the meeting.

Walter and Kim Inman, Vernon and Walter Jr. were camping recently at Hebron Pines Campground. They enjoyed the live entertainment and the swimming pool while there.

The West Paris minor league team--the A's--had two ball games recently. On July 7 they were hosts to the Oxford Rockies. The Rockies came out on top 17-9. On July 9 the A's traveled to Hebron where they won 14-13. It was a close and exciting game. Vernon and Walter Inman, Eric Thorpe, Nathan Hutchins and Ashley Bies all hit triples. Ian McLean hit two triples and a home run. Walter Inman and Jason shared the pitching duties. The A's record now stands at eight wins-two losses.

The library will exhibit a collection of old dolls during their open house on Olde Home Days. Anyone that would like to loan a doll to be displayed should call Carol at 392-4841 during library hours. The dolls should be at least 25 years old.

Plans are well underway for the Olde Home Days celebration. The theme for the event is "Four Seasons of Sports." The committee is looking for float entries. A new category in the parade will be "Wacky Wheels," children eight and over must be in costume and on wheels of any type (roller blades, skate boards, etc.) use your imagination, the wackier the better, the category will be judged and awarded. Several spots are available for rent in front of the tennis courts during Saturday's events, please contact Leon Simmons at 392-4461 for more information. Many nice donations have been received for the raffle, don't forget to pick up a numbered button now available in local stores.

Norman and Louise Tetley celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary with friends at the Town & Country Inn in Shelburne, N.H. on July 6.

Guests of Norman and Louise Tetley last week were their granddaughter Robin and her husband Jim Viola and their children Paul and Sara of Fitchburg, Mass. They attended the parade in Harrison where their grandfather marched with the Funsters of the Oxford Shriners Club.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Irene Hatsfield, Doris Parent and Olive Anderson of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford last week. Of the "Lefties" Karlene was high on the singles, with one string of 101, but tied with Betsy on the triples. Of the "Righties" Doris was high on the triples and singles.

Well, I am back from Rhode Island after spending a week in my old home town of Pascoag, after 25 years living here in North Newry. I met a lot of my old friends while there and had a great family reunion at my nephew's residence. Host and Hostess Carl #2 and wife Barbara Toti, their children, Carl #3, Chris and Paula and others were busy cooking and serving about 40 people, mostly relatives, during Sunday. There were Jan, Pansy, Dora, John, Rosie, Marion, Jackie, Theresa, Lillian, and many more too numerous to mention. We ate, drank soda, tea, lemonade, etc. We played games and talked and laughed a lot. It was a great week for me, but it was hot and a few electrical storms kept us guessing when the next one was coming. I will remember it always.

While there I also contacted Brent Bachelder and friend Terry O'Dowd, but that is another story to come next week. And much more--stay tuned.

Happy Birthday to Amy Hanscom. Louise Tetley and yours truly went to see her Friday, a little late but we wish her good health and good cheers.

The Historical Society points out that Thomas Ormsbee once said of collecting, "The important thing is to know what we are seeking and find the best of its kind." Items given to the Historical Museum lately: Bernard and Eunice Brooks, a timber from the old hotel; Larry Billings, a book; Basil Sequin, the old signs from Cole's Store. Ruth Cox and Althea Tucker watched the museum recently. The Historical Society points out that the British novelist George Eliot once wrote about the "solemn, splendid, past" and the historical thrill associated with it.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday night with a 6:30 supper. It was a three-point meeting with Franklin putting on the supper, Oxford filling the officers' chairs and Pleasant Valley putting on the program. Sixty-three were present. It was a very nice program with readings about the flag, our nation, etc.; on the light side, a skit on "Where's the Fire"; a lady and gentleman did a beautiful job of singing both patriotic songs and religious ones; a reading, "Where my get up and go, got up and went." Just how most of us feel at one time or another. Next meeting will be ladies' night on July 19. The charter was draped in memory of Olive Davis. There will be a booster club supper on July 16 and a variety show on July 23.

On a day recently a couple of my neighbors and their two-year-old daughter Lisa asked me to go with them to Overset Pond. Anyone who has lived nearby has heard of, or visited this pond nestled far back among trees with a huge cliff rising above it. I had hiked there many times over the years but it had been several since the last time, so I found many changes. We rode in on a very rough road and a few mud holes, but we made it to the pond.

At times a chipmunk crossed our road where he was gathering food for the winter ahead.

Lisa admired the pond with its sparkle and liked to talk about it.

I wished we could be at the top of the bluff where we could see the perfect valentine, the shape of the pond, but only seen from the top. This pond is only one piece of the mirror that has been broken into a thousand pieces and wildly scattered over the whole state of Maine. Each reflects the full blaze of the sun.

I heard the wind as it seemed to say, "hush." It was like a vast calm breathing.

The aspens because of the flattened leaf stalks set at right angles to the blade itself, even in a slight draft, patter like rain, rustle like silk shirts, or whisper like children in the back row at school.

There was quiet and solitude, perfect complements to the scene. We lingered on shore for a few minutes to capture the view, to soak up the silence and to feel the fresh wind.

I thought of how the glacier had carved the valley and wondered what secret the Bluff held, for it had kept its massive prominence having resisted despite a vast amount and intensity of weathering to which it had been subjected.

The pines talked in deep voices as the wind played about us.

I saw several kinds of fungi. They have strange and lovely colors.

Lisa was a perfect hiker and had no complaints about the pesky mosquitoes. Once she lost her footing and sat down straddle a rock. I thought that she might cry, but she hopped up and said, "I sat on a rock, see I sat on a rock."

After a little more walking we turned the car around and went back out only to take the road to Patch Mountain and visited other, various places of interest. Here pale flowers carpeted the fields while up above,

ADOPT A WILD HORSE

On Aug. 14, 125 healthy and trainable wild horses recently rounded up from fragile western rangelands will be offered for adoption at the Horse Park of New Jersey in Allentown, N.J.

Wild horses are gathered in Nevada, Wyoming, California, Utah and Oregon. Before being transported to satellite adoption centers in the East and Midwest, all animals are vaccinated, blood tested and dewormed. Each animal is inspected by a veterinarian and given a clean bill of health before being shipped.

To qualify to adopt up to four animals, applicants must have a sturdy corral at least six feet high, shelter, transportation, and means of caring for the animals. The adoption fee of $125 per horse is payable in cash or money order at the time of the adoption. The fee helps defray the federal government's cost of roundup, veterinary care, transportation and administrative expenses. After an animal has been adopted, BLM contract personnel will halter and load the animal for the adopter.

For applications and more information about this event contact: Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 631, Milwaukee, WI 53201-0631, or call 414-297-4417.

Creaser said. "I kept thinking I'd wake up and it would be just clear quartz--no one should have 2,500 pounds of amethyst."

"As you look down into it," Howard said. "It looks like a treasure chest."

Creaser said the pocket has yielded hundreds of pounds of gem faceting material along with museum-quality specimens. One single amethyst crystal weighted in at nine pounds, he said.

Placing a value on the find is difficult, Creaser said, but added that several hundred thousand dollars is not unreasonable.

The pocket is on private property and not open to the public. Various people have explored the site which was last mined 40 years ago.

Seven days were spent hauling the amethyst from the remote location by hand. Some amethyst remains in the pocket.

Perham's of West Paris will market the amethyst. Gem stones and specimens are now on display at the store.

Intergalactic Mining is calling the significance of the find in Maine, second only to the vast quantity of tourmaline found at the Newry Mine in 1973.

Assistant State Geologist Woodrow Thompson Jr., who attended Friday's press conference, said the state is interested in the find for three reasons--documentation, tourism, and a chance to study the granite in which the crystals occurred.

Thompson predicted that the find will boost interest in rock collecting at all of Maine's mines, which will bring more tourist dollars into the state.

More rules on public land

Because of the gem find's close proximity to the government owned Deer Hill mine in the White Mountain National Forest, Rangers from the Evans Notch Station are expecting heavier than normal traffic at the mine.

"We expect more people, but we're not sure what the effect will be," said Ranger Pat Nasta. "We'll do some extra monitoring. Our main goal is just to protect the resource out there. It's kind of wait and see for us."

Hobby collecting is allowed in the White Mountain National Forest, but not commercial mining.

"We have had some concerns (at Deer Hill) in the past," Nasta said, "and we've gone as far as to investigate some of them, but that's all I can say."

Hobby collectors are allowed to dig for minerals, but only with hand tools in a small area, and the digging must be for personal use and not for sale or personal gain.

Holes resulting from the digging must be filled and the area restored to as natural an appearance as possible at the end of each day's collecting. Use of power tools, machinery or explosives is prohibited.

SALVATION ARMY SEEKS FLOOD RELIEF ASSISTANCE

Salvation Army officers and volunteers continue to serve in the many flooded areas of Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, and Nebraska.

So far 51 mobile food kitchens and canteens are in operation, serving 77,232 individuals; 788 persons have been given shelter, and 1,139 people are involved in this relief effort.

Local officials, while meeting the needs, know that the worst is yet to come and that's the clean-up after the waters recede. The Army is prepared to remain on duty as long as needed, officials say.

Funds are being collected to aid flood victims. Checks may be sent to The Salvation Army, P.O. Box 3647, Portland, ME 04104--marked "Flood Disaster Relief."

Cisco & Ponch's owners hope to market their salsa

By ARANKA MATOLCSY

Two Bethel entrepreneurs are hoping to have their Cisco & Poncho's homemade, zesty, sock-it-to-you salsa on the shelves of local markets and mom and pop stores within six months.

The salsa is made with all fresh vegetables and hand-ground red and green chilies that create an authentic and unusual flavor. Michael and Marlene McKamey believe their festive mixture is second to none.

"We feel we have a competitive edge," said Marlene, noting that more than 50,000 people patronized the restaurant she and her husband opened in Bethel five years ago. "They have all had a cup of our salsa at some point.

In addition, locals and regulars are loyal to the couple's restaurant, adding to the strong marketing potential.

"The locals are our bread and butter. They really support us. I think we are successful because of that," said Marlene.

Right now the McKameys are looking into different avenues of marketing. The two already have a name for the Mexican relish, but won't divulge the catchy logo and particular design until the trademark work is finished.

"We are still in the preliminary stages. It takes time to get all the wheels in motion," noted Michael, who said they are researching consulting or co-packing.

"We may just do it ourselves. We know our salsa better than anyone. We're doers. We get things done," he added.

The dynamic pair feel fortunate being able to branch out and expand their thriving business in the tough Oxford Hills economy.

"What's most important, especially in today's economy, is you have to be able to diversify--to keep things moving," said Marlene.

"Plus it's the best darned salsa you'll ever find," added Michael.

The McKameys--who are also the main chefs at the restaurant--are looking into the possibility of marketing some of their other creations, such as spice packs, marinades and maybe frozen foods like homemade tamales, according to Michael, who noted that Stouffer's Frozen Foods started out as a restaurant in Chicago.

The McKameys developed an affinity and "addiction" to Mexican food when they were living in Phoenix, Ariz., and learned how to cook the spicy cuisine from Mexican friends, according to Marlene.

They started cooking and selling the ethnic fare out of a lunch truck in Bryant Pond almost ten years ago.

The two set up shop at Cisco & Poncho's in Berlin, N.H., for two years before moving the restaurant to Bethel. The restaurant now seats 116 people.

Hiking with dogs

The dog days of summer are upon us in more ways than one. Even though the phrase refers to the rising "dog star," Cirus, this is also the time of year when many people head to the White Mountains to hike and backpack with their own dogs.

The White Mountain National Forest does not restrict dogs from backcountry trails, and for many people sharing the woods with a canine companion is a great joy. White Mountain folklore is full of tales of heroic and hard-hiking dogs.

But these hot summer days and rough mountain trails can spell disaster for the unprepared dog and human no matter how well-intentioned the outing. A little preparation and forethought can help prevent a lot of suffering.

If you bring your dog hiking remember that dogs are just like people. You can't expect a dog who's been sitting on the couch watching Lassie re-runs all winter to be a super-dog out on the trail. Plan your hike accordingly.

These hot days can be brutal on us, now imagine hiking with a fur coat. You can't always rely on finding water along the trail so bring extra water for yourself and extra water and a drinking dish for your dog. On really hot days think about less-rigorous exercise.

The rocks above treeline in the White Mountains can be devastating to an unconditioned dogs paws. Cut and torn paws will end a trip quickly, leaving your dog bleeding and

After-dinner entertainment will be provided by "The Three of Us," a highly-acclaimed singing trio from the Farmington area. This talented group is known for its three-part harmonies and acoustic guitar. They were guest performers last winter at Bethel's Just Imagine Coffee House and are recognized for their creative arrangements and enthusiastic performances.

Andover Olde Home Days events

The 14th annual Andover Olde Home Days will be held on Aug. 6, 7 and 8.

Starting Friday at 6 p.m., the Ellis River Riders will host a dinner with entertainment featuring Joe Perham at the town hall. Advance tickets are on sale at Andover stores and Davis Florist in Rumford. Also on Friday night on the common, the "No Strings Attached Band" will sing and play. There's no admission fee, but please bring lawn chairs.

Saturday's events will kick off at 10 a.m. with the parade. The theme this year is "Four Seasons of Sports," so put on your thinking caps and make a float. We're hoping for the biggest parade ever.

Sky divers will jump on the little league field at noon, weather permitting.

There's something for everyone on or near the common all day long. Children's games, crafts, food, yard sale items, and food. There's also a fly-casting contest, cow-chip flip, bike and doll carriage parade, arm wrestling, horseshoe pitching, art show, fire muster (little league field), flower show (historical building), car show (Akers' field), and chicken barbecue in front of the fire station, hosted by Andover Volunteer Fire Dept.

The First Congregational Church will hold a white elephant, craft and food sale at the C.E. Building.

There will be free rides in a horse-drawn wagon, compliments of Ron York and Connie Jack of Remuda Farm from E. Dixfield.

Olde Home Days T-shirts and pins will be on sale on the common with numbers on the back of the pins. Numbers will be drawn for door prizes throughout the day. All prizes are donated by area businsses and individuals.

At the library: a display of old dolls, book sale--also a poem of Andover, stationery and greeting cards with print of painting done by George H. Hallowell; cards donated by John and Judy Fox. Books: "Glimpses of Old Andover" and "Andover, the first 175 years." There is also a beautiful quilt, made and donated by Shirley Gammon and Joyce Frazier, to be raffled off.

The car show will be held at Akers' field. Viewing starts at 9 a.m. and runs until 2 p.m. at which time 52 trophies will be awarded. This year's show is sponsored by Andover Wood Products and hosted by Western Maine Street Rods, a local car club. Trophies are sponsored by area businesses. There are also door prizes.

Point of interest: 14 years ago a life-long resident of Andover, Merton Perkins arranged the first car show. There were approximately five cars in the show. It was held in the church parking lot. One of the cars was a 1930 Chevy belonging to Merton. That same car has led the parade every year since. The "little" Chevy now belongs to Leon Simmons and was originally purchased by Bert and Arvilla Feener of Andover in 1930, brand spanking new. Mrs. Feener has ridden in her old car each year as it proudly leads the parade. She holds the Boston Post Cane and will celebrate her 100th birthday in August of this year.

The 1930 Chevy, along with owner Leon Simmons who took over the car show from Mr. Perkins, will be at Akers' field with approximately 170-plus other old and unique automobiles. Be sure to stop by and have a glimpse of yesteryear. Cars come from as far away as Massachusetts. Use of the field is graciously given by Leon Akers of Akers Ski Inc.

Charlie Who will also be appearing on Saturday. Charlie Who is really Alan Tacheny who has been involved in children's theater, circus mime and clowning since 1977 when he first performed with the Brunswick-based Young People's Theater. Since then Alan has dedicated himself to letting his clown inspire audiences and kids of clowning through cleverness and simplicity. Charlie Who will be in town for most of the day and will be doing two shows.

On Sunday, the Ellis River Riders will host a horse show at their ring on Airport Rd. (old Rte. 5) with games and events going all day. There's free admission and lots of good food.

Spend the weekend in our quiet little village nestled in the mountains. There's lots of good, clean air and fun for everyone.

Hiking with dogs

The dog days of summer are upon us in more ways than one. Even though the phrase refers to the rising "dog star," Cirus, this is also the time of year when many people head to the White Mountains to hike and backpack with their own dogs.

The White Mountain National Forest does not restrict dogs from backcountry trails, and for many people sharing the woods with a canine companion is a great joy. White Mountain folklore is full of tales of heroic and hard-hiking dogs.

But these hot summer days and rough mountain trails can spell disaster for the unprepared dog and human no matter how well-intentioned the outing. A little preparation and forethought can help prevent a lot of suffering.

If you bring your dog hiking remember that dogs are just like people. You can't expect a dog who's been sitting on the couch watching Lassie re-runs all winter to be a super-dog out on the trail. Plan your hike accordingly.

These hot days can be brutal on us, now imagine hiking with a fur coat. You can't always rely on finding water along the trail so bring extra water for yourself and extra water and a drinking dish for your dog. On really hot days think about less-rigorous exercise.

The rocks above treeline in the White Mountains can be devastating to an unconditioned dogs paws. Cut and torn paws will end a trip quickly, leaving your dog bleeding and unable to continue. Watch your dog's feet for signs of wear and tear. Carry booties and a dog first aid kit for emergencies (including needlenose pliers just in case your friendly dog meets a not-so-friendly porcupine).

Always watch your dog for signs of heat stress (excessive panting, glazed eyes) and exhaustion. Let him rest as often as needed.

Besides the safety of the dog, dog lovers need to remember--as unbelievable as it may seem--not everyone likes dogs. Be considerate. Your dog should be under physical or verbal control at all times. Carry a leash and use it on busy summits, around other people's campsites or whenever it seems necessary. (In national forest campgrounds your dog must be kept on a leash no longer than six feet.)

Don't let your dog soil the trail. Use a stick to move feces off the trail, and don't let him walk through a clean spring that other hikers are about to drink from.

If your dog is aggressive and unfriendly to other people, keep in mind that six million other people use the White Mountain National Forest each year. It may be best to leave your dog at home or take him to a very remote area.

In general, don't bite off more than your dog can chew and while it may sound like a long list of doggy don'ts, a little common sense and courtesy will go a long way to helping all of us enjoy the mountains--even our dogs.

BARKERS' 50TH

An open house honoring Carlton "Jr" and Mertice Barker will be held on Sunday, Aug. 1, from 2 to 4 p.m. The event is being planned by their four children and will be held at Andrea and Gus Fillebrown's residence on McAllister Rd. off Rt. 5 in East Stoneham. Moses Mason Museum opens Bethel Historical Society's Dr. Moses Mason House Museum open for its 20th season on July 1. The museum will be open each day except Monday from 1 to 4 p.m. until Labor Day.

Reflecting the life and times of Dr. and Mrs. Mason, the museum contains eight period rooms plus a two story hallway containing the famous Rufus Porter murals completed in the 1830s. Visitors to the museum are taken back in time to the first half of the 19th century at the home of a prominent Bethel citizen, who was a physician, postmaster, politician, and businessman.

This year marks the 200th anniversary of the birth of Dr. Mason's wife, Agnes Straw Mason in 1793. Special exhibits commemorate the 150th anniversaries of two adjoining towns, Mason (named for the doctor in 1843) and Hanover, part of which was once Bethel. Anyone wishing to visit the museum is cordially invited to do so; special arrangements for visiting at times other than the posted hours can be made by calling 207-824-2908.

A thousand members strong, the Bethel Historical Society is western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time historical society, dedicated to preserving and interpreting the region's past. Its activities include monthly meetings, exhibits, lectures, special events, school programs, and publications, including its quarterly, "The Bethel Courier."

The society's operations are housed in its headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House (1813), which contains a period house museum, meeting space, research facilities, and office.

Historical society campaign seeks operational funds

The Bethel Historical Society's annual campaign will seek funds to support the operational expenses of the society, according to Howard W. Cole, chairman of the annual campaign.

In the past the campaign has been geared to raising funds for the endowment, but due to the rising cost of operations over which the society has little or no control and the lowered yields from endowment income reflecting the decline in interest rates, the society trustees voted earlier this year to authorize an annual fund that can be used for operational expenses, according to Cole.

If more than enough is raised to help cover annual expenses, the remainder will be transferred to the endowment. Tax deductible contributions in any amount are being solicited by the committee; they can be sent to the society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Me., 04217.

INFORMATION MEETING ON VETERANS HOME

Rep. Richard A. Bennett (R-Norway) has announced that a public information meeting has been scheduled on the proposed Veterans Home in South Paris. The meeting will be held at the American Legion Hall in Norway at 7 p.m. on Thursday, July 29.

"This is a great opportunity for the many people in our area who are interested in this project and its impact to have their questions answered," said Bennett. "This is the time to ask the people who know about the job opportunities at the facility, when they will be hiring, how to bid for construction work, related business opportunities, and when beds may be ready for occupancy."

For additional information, contact Rep. Richard Bennett at 527-2289 or Oxford Hills Area Development Corporation at 743-2425.

AHHS begins fund drive

Barbara Douglass of Bethel is serving as campaign chair for the 1993 Androscoggin Home Health Services' Annual Fund in the Bethel area. Also serving on the campaign are: Rev. Gwyneth Bohr, Barbara Brown, Muriel Faudi, June Greig, Rebecca Kendall, Cathy Newell, Sande Powell-Endicott, Barbara Stevens, Jan Stowell, Natalie Timberlake, and Lindley Wieden.

"I think people know about the importance of and the high quality of service from Androscoggin Home Health Services," said Don Kniseley of the AHHS staff, "but I don't think many people understand the importance of the Annual Fund campaign to its operations. It really is the difference between providing services for those who are insured or able to pay, and providing services to everyone in the community. It also helps make possible a number of services which are not covered by insurance at all, such as the costs of our volunteer programs, homemaking services for frail elders, and in-home parenting education."

AHHS has a goal of raising at least $55,000 throughout its service area of Androscoggin, Franklin, and Oxford Counties, as well as New Gloucester and Monmouth, during the 1993 Annual Fund campaign.

AHHS has cared for more than 78 people in the Bethel area during the past year. In addition, they provided $1,352 worth of care to patients in this community who had no insurance coverage, according to the organization.

AHHS provides home care and social services in Androscoggin, Franklin, Oxford, and parts of Cumberland and Kennebec Counties. Offices are maintained in Lewiston, Norway, Rumford, Farmington, and Livermore Falls.

Upton to publish new/old cookbook

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Upton Ladies Aid Society has compiled a new cookbook that features some favorite old and new town recipes, and is spiced with antique photos and histories of local families.

Society member Lucille Largess said the new book includes histories submitted by ten Upton families and notes from summer residents.

Several townspeople have also rummaged through their old family albums for pictures of the town and its forefathers.

The 208-page book includes photos of the bygone days of Upton logging camps, WWI soldiers parading through town, activities on Umbagog Lake and more.

Along with scores of recipes submitted by current town residents, book also includes a reprint of a 1940s Upton Ladies Aid cookbook.

Several activities are planned to help raise funds to pay for the cost of printing the cookbook, Largess said.

The book will be released at the Ladies Aid Society Fair on Aug. 28 from 1 to 4 p.m.

The fair will feature a yard sale, fancy table, food table and craft sale. Raffle tickets for a hand-made quilt, afghan and porcelain doll are also on sale. Table space is available for $10. To reserve a space contact Elsie Fuller at 533-2511.

Following the fair, a casserole supper will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Other fundraisers include a casserole supper and auction on July 31 at 5:30 p.m., and a food sale from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Aug. 14, both events will be held at the Ladies Aid building.

Anyone interested in reserving a copy of the cookbook for $14.95 can send payment to Elsie Fuller, HCR 61, Box 420, Upton, Maine, 04261 before Aug. 1. After that date, the books will be sold for $19.95.

In Loving Memory of My Grammie Nancy B. Lord
9/12/1894 - 8/1/1992

I was just fourteen when I was blessed and went to live with you,
And little did I know then what you were about to do, you enveloped me so quickly with your unconditional love,
And powerfully exemplified our almighty God above. Your precious little hands whose fingers bent from all their years, Always managed to wipe away my many girlhood tears.
You
stood less than five feet tall yet
you were a tower to me,
Of strength, wisdom, tolerence and all that I hoped to be. You filled me with memories that I will always treasure,
And gave me your gift of love which
I value beyond all measure.
You had an impact on my life that remains with me today,Which is why it hurt
so terribly when you passed away.
Not a day goes by that I don't see your sparkling eyes so blue. Or recall the unselfishness that was such a part of you.
I still see your radiant smile and the delight it spread around, In my heart, for you my Grammie, gratitude will always abound.
I thank you for the years you filled with your incredible love,
And for watching over me now from your new life up above.

With all my love,
Julia
